

Question:

Does your school follow a set of guidelines when reviewing the quality of a guest speaker or inviting a volunteer speaker?

Does your school give any type of guidelines to the speaker covering general expectations of their presentation? (Example - language, gestures, etc)

We have no formal guidelines, but we hope that someone has heard and approved of the speaker in advance. It does not, however, always happen.

Walt - Glenbard South

No, however we expect that staff members who invite guest speakers will instruct their guests to behave in a professional manner and support our educational environment and community standards.

Pat - Lake Park

I insist on seeing all speakers or a tape of their presentation before they can come here. We have had several bad experiences in the past not doing that.
